

Robin Hood is back in Sherwood Forest—on the screen

Richard Todd as the valiant bowman who leads the band of outlaws in Sherwood Forest

This Thursday Walt Disney's new Technicolor film, Robin Hood and His Merrie Men, will have its first presentation in London.

It was made in England, and the all-British cast is headed by Richard Todd as the romantic outlaw. Joan Rice, who plays the part of Maid Marian, actually spent all her childhood in the Sherwood Forest district of Nottingham.

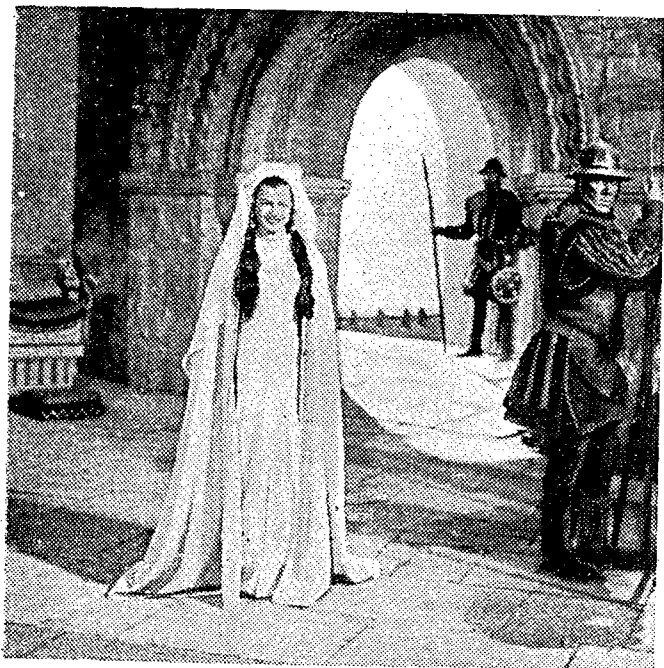

James Robertson Justice as Little John

The film reconstruction of medieval Nottingham Square

Robin Hood and other competitors in the archery contest

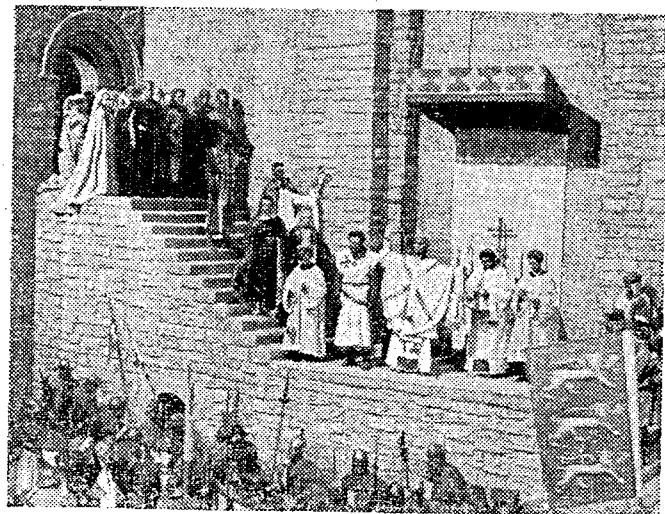

Joan Rice as Maid Marian, amid the Norman splendour of Nottingham Castle

The Sheriff of Nottingham's men in pursuit of the outlaws

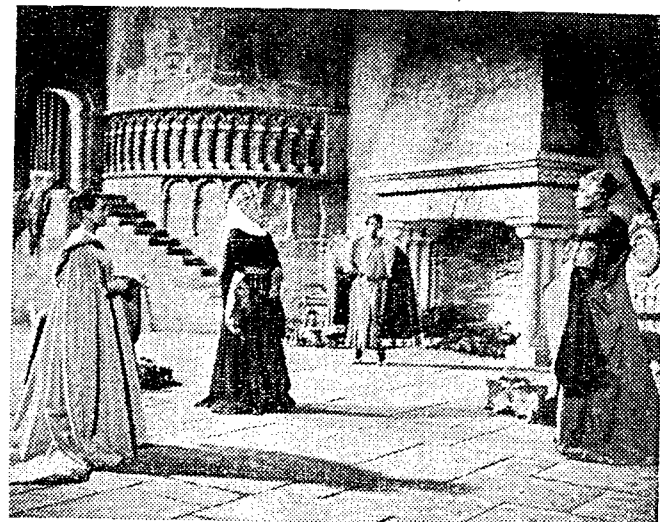

James Hayler as jovial Friar Tuck

The Archbishop bestows his blessing on the King's Crusade

Peter Finch as the Sheriff of Nottingham, Robin's arch enemy

Maid Marian, Queen Eleanor, Prince John, and the Archbishop